Great Gathering to Recall the Early Days of the Church.

REV. E. JUDSON'S ADDRESS

The Great Theologian on True Philan thropy-Rev. W. P. Hellings, D. D., on His Former Work in Scranton. Programme for Today.

The central meetings to celebrate the ne hundredth anniversary of the institution of Baptist work in Scranton and vicinity were continued yesterday at the Penn Avenue Baptist church. A prayer and praise meeting was held at .45 p. m., after which the pastor, Rev. Warren G. Partridge, delivered an adfress of welcome and said: "It is a sincere, heartfelt and a two-

William Bishop and Elder Mott, which should inspire us to noble service when we think of the work of the early days. I welcome particularly Brother Archer, of Pittston, and Mrs. Cutler, of Providence, who are present, and were two of the charter members of this church. "I welcome also the older members, those who I see among us today with grey hairs. God bless your last days. We have no idea of the difficulties under which you worked in the early days of the church. I welcome the middle area middle aged who are now in the midst of the work, and also the young people from whom so much is expected in the affiliation of the young people of our churches. We welcome all, whether from the city or from the distance, with cordial love and fellowship."

The First Baptist Church,

Mr. Partridge then gave numerous statistics of the increase of Baptist statistics of the increase of Baptist work and remarked 'that the First Baptist church in Pennsylvania was established 210 years ago, and was called the Lower Bethlehem Baptist church. At present there are 677 churches in the state with 90,000 members, and last year alone 5,400 baptisms took place. In the Abington association there 'are twenty-three churches with over 4,300 members, and in Scranton there are nine churches. n Scranton there are nine churches. In conclusion he renewed a cordial, hearty, sincere and loyal welcome, and hoped that the meeting would tend to inspire them all to grander results in the future.

Miss Mary Bevan read an excellent paper upon the pastorate of her father, Rev. Dr. Isaac Bevan, who was first pastor of the church, serving in that capacity from Nov. 1, 1859, to Nov. 2, 1869. Several incidents in his pastorate were related in yesterday's Tribune.

Rev. W. P. Hellings, of Omaha, Neb., delivered an entertaining address on his reminiscences while pastor of the church from Dec. 20, 1869, to May 22, 1877. A notable feature of Dr. Helling's pastorate was the generous liberality.

pastorate was the generous liberality of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Hallstead who presented the beautiful parsonage o the church. This munificent actio of one of the pillars of the Baptist community was referred to by their former pastor. Several incidents or deep interest to a large number present were related by the speaker and the awakening of old associations by his eloquent address made a great impres sion on his audience. Mr. Sisson's Paper.

A. C. Sisson, of Factoryville, read a paper on "The Churches and Ministers of the Abington Association." The Ablington church was organized in 1803 and the association established in 1807, for the past twenty-five years were $6^3,778; baptisms, 4,686; total value of courch property within the association was $262,300. Twenty-one churches were supplied with pastors, six were without a minister and 10,550 sittings were provided for. Mr. Sesson then gave an interesting account of the pas-tors of the old Abington church.

Dr. Hellings, by special request, de-livered a few incidents which had oc-curred during his residence in Scranton and the relation was deeply interest-ing. Mr. Miller, a Baptist, 86 years of age, made a few interesting represenmade a few interesting remarks. The evening service was conducted by the evening service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Warren G. Partridge, assisted by the pastors of the daughter churches, Rev.W. J. Ford, Green Hidge; Rev. W. J. Watkins, Providence, and Rev. A. B. O'Neal, Dunmore. An excellent quilnette, "Seek Ye the Lord," was rendered by Professor Watkins' choir, and other selections were given during the service which were of a high musical standard. Rev. Dr. Edward Judson, of the Jud-son Memorial church, New York, was introduced by the pastor and took his text from Luke x. 29, his theme being "The Great Samaritan, the Model Philanthropist" and said: Remarks of Dr. Judson.

"This simple story which Jesus tells is familiar to all since childhood, and are words of great value in telling us of true philanthrophy. Jesus introduces four figures; first the sufferer, then the priest, who may be called the egotist, and the sufferer naturally looks upon him as one who will give him relief; and as he was a priest at leisure or on vacation and had just been performing acts of worship, it was reasonable to expect this. But the priest passed by, made an excuse and went on his way. Then Christ presents the Levite, who we may term the sentimentalist; he went and feasted his eyes on the horri-ble sight but took it all out in feeling. Church work which is sensational and works on the feelings, is undignified and gets immediate results, but they ephe-mereal. A man who lets his feelings be stirred and does nothing is more apa-thetic than before and it is remarkable to what depths of meanness human nature will descend when unobserved. Christ then presents the philanthropist in the garb of a Samaritan who dressed the wounds of the sufferer and placed him on his beast and saw him in safe hands. "There are three questions that are answered in the parable. Who is my neighbor? and it is answered incident-ally 'Ye who suffer'—all the fallen men and women, the heathens, all in suffering, all these are our neighbors.

"'What is it to be neighborly?' This "What is it to be neighborly?" This is the central thought; true neighborliness is the doctrine of the parable. The church should be directly engaged in works of philanthropy and alleviate the distress in its immediate neighborhood, and if it were responsible for the poor children, the waifs, and the oppressed, a church home for the sick, what a glorious work would be accomplished. True philanthropy has many features. We should be observant Some are so absorbed in the world's affairs that they do not observe the misery and cases of waste; observant attention to the social sores and an in-tensity of sympathy would soon re-

True Philanthropy Is Practical. "Promptness is essential to true phil-anthropy. We should not delay. True anthropy. We should not delay. True philanthropy is practical and does not undertake to promote societies and revei in the luxuries of bylaws. It is personal, it is no good to accomplish it by proxy, it must be personal to come in contact with the suffering. It is persistent and does not easily give up; people like to begin published.

sistent and does not easily give up; people like to begin philanthropic work and are easily discouraged, but true philanthropy is never weary of well doing. It is also thrifty and business like and it is unselfish because you never expect to get anything back.

The third, question answered is 'What shall I do to inherit eternal life?' and the answer is that to love is to live. One who does not love may exist, but he does not live. There is a world-wide difference between love and lust. The question has been asked, 'Is marriage a failure?' and I think the best answer is, that marriage is not a best answer is, that marriage is not a failure, but many married men and married women are. Where does the Gospel come in? It is impossible to love without opening the whole soul to Jesus, and this is the teaching of the old parable and its questions and answers." Rev. Dr. Judson closed his sermon with an eloquent recitation of I Corinthians, xii, closing with the words, "And now abideth faith, hope, charity; these three, but the greater of these is

A reception was afterward held in the lecture room, when the charter mem-bers and city ministers were introduced to Rev. Dr. Judson.

Exercises for Today. "It is a sincere, heartfelt and a two-fold welcome which I extend to you to-day, as it is a welcome to two anniversary of this church and the one hundredth anniversary of the blessed work of our denomination in the city, To the pastors who are laboring in the city they have a noble example before them in William Rishon and Elder Mott, which Today the programme will be as fol-

At the afternoon session, which meets at 2:30 p. m., papers will be read as follows; "Rev. William Bishop, Elder Mott and the First Church," by Rev. J. T. Collins; "The Young People and the Sunday School," by Hon. Lemuel Amer. man; "Evangelistic Work in the Asso-ciation," by Rev. W. G. Grow, and "One Hundred years of Baptist History," by Rev. D. C. Hughes.

At the 7:30 meeting Rev. Dr. Lorimer of Boston, will deliver his celebrated address, "The Baptists in History," which he originally delivered before the world's parliament of religion at the Chicago exposition.

CENTENNIAL NOTES.

A. C. Sisson, of Factoryville, who has been secretary of the Abington asso-ciation for twenty-five years, related several incidents which are reported elsewhere, but the following statistics appertaining to Penn Avenue church for the past twenty-five years will be of special value; Home church ex-penses, $116,408; Sunday school ex-penses, $15,164; benevolent and miscellaneous, $80,435; total expended, $212,008 number of baptisms, 1,104; deaths, 104. Several pastors and prominent offi-cials from Wilkes-Barre, Pittston and other neighboring churches are entertained by Penn Avenue members dur ing the sessions. One of the speakers at the afternoon session referred to the Penn Avenue church as "The Partridge's Nest."

Rev. Mr. Britton, of the West Pittston church, and Rev. Mr. Stewart, of the First Baptist church, Pittston, opened the sessions yesterday. This was an appropriate selection, as the original church of the vicinity, one hundred years ago, was known as the "Pittston and Providence Church."

One of the interesting incidents re-lated yesterday was the fact that a Baptist church was founded in Penn-cylyania in 1834 and is at 111 action. Lower Bethlehem.

Rev. Dr. Judson last night described the singing as "a superb and inspiring

Among the thousands of Welsh resi-tents in Hyde Park there must be a considerable number of Episcopalians who vice, and who, probably, do not regularly frequent a place of worship, and if the movement is properly directed there is no reason, in the minds of the promoters, why they could not secure the largest individual congregation in Scranton. The suggestion that will be made for the consideration of the rector, is that Welsh services be held either in St. David's church or in the school room at 6 p. m., before the ordinary evening service, until such time as arrangements can be made for a permanent church or room, and, if possible, a Welsh speaking lay reader or clergy-

The scheme is very comprehensive and the young men deserve every encouragement for their pluck in taking upon themselves such great responsibility. Welshmen interested in the movement should, at once, communicate with Mr. Jones, who will be pleased to explain all details in the prepara-ory stage of the movement. There is no doubt that Mr. Mill and the vestry of St. David's will willingly assist to their utmost in the matter.

SCHROEDER-MORRIS NUPTIALS

Ceremony Performed by Rev. P. J. Mo Manus in St. Peter's Cathedral-Bride's Home Beautifully Decorated for the Reception Which Followed.

Miss Mary Geraldine Schroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schroeder, was wedded to Percival John Morris, of the architect firm of Brown & Morris, in St. Peter's cathedral at 8 o'clock last evening. The ceremony and reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents in Green Ridge were elaborate and complete in detail and conducted with exquisite taste.

The cathedral was filled at 8 o'clock with a large number of invited guests and friends of the bridal couple Bauer's orchestra and the organist, Professor William P. Schilling, per-formed an excellent musical prejude. The altar was biazoned with candles which formed the initial letters "S" and "M," and was decorated with roses and banked with ferns and palms. Rev. P. J. McManus, of St. Paul's

Roman Catholic church, of Green Ridge, pronounced the marriage rites while the bridal couple were surrounded by the following; Miss Cecilia Sylvester Schroeder, maid of honor; Frederick Tropp, best man; Misses Gertrude Morris, Philippine Tropp, Mame O'Malley, Emma Koch, Lillian Hall Morris and Augusta Tropp, bridesmaids; Beatrice and Trystropp, bridesmaids; Beatrice and Trystine Morris and Charlotta Schroeder, sisters of the groom and bride, flower girls; William Watkins, Peckville; William Avery, Charles Williams, Eugene Davis, George Rogers and Samuel Derman, ushers; Edward Thayer, master of corresponder ter of ceremonies

The Bride's Gowns The bride was gowned in white bro-caded Peau Signe, trimmed with pearl and old point and duchesse lace. She wore a silk tulle veil, draped from a diamond sunburst, the groom's gift, and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley from which hung narrow white blusters of lilies-of-the-valley. The skirt was full and entrain, and the bod-ice was made French. The maid of ionor wore a Persian fancy faille, demitrained and short bodiced and trimmed with chiffony and white forget-me-nots. She carried white roses,

A particularly pretty feature of the bridal robes were the yellow, pink and blue gowns of the bridesmaids. Two were gowned in each color. The ma-terial was striped China silk, and each bridesmaid carried similarly tinted car-nations. The flower girls wore dresses of white China silk, with deep lace and ribbon trimmings. They carried white leghorn hats heaped with roses. The gifts of the bride and groom to the bridesmalds and men of the party were pearl-studded gold breast and cravat pins.

Tendered a Reception Only the relatives attended the reception and supper at the house on San-derson avenue. The hallway, staircase and rooms of the lower floor were deco-rated by Clark, according to designs furnished by the groom. The bridal party received in the drawing room alcove beneath floral initial letters suspended from white satin ribbons. The alcove was banked with palms and ferns and running pine was festooned from hand-painted Cupids distributed about the room at the junction of walls and ceiling. Red roses occupied the mantel. A pretty effect was displayed by autumn leaves and palms in the library. Pink roses and ribbon, running pine, maidendhair and paims were used in the parior decorations. The dining room table was in the form of a horseshoe, the menu being served from the interior. It was decorated with pink not been arranged for, are invited to meet the church officers after meetings at the desk. tel and the walls were banked with ferns and palms and festooned with The supper was served by Huntington. The elegant and numerous wedding gifts displayed on the second floor inluded various and elaborate remembrances and were practical testimonies of the esteem in which the young couple are regarded.

At 12.10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Morris eft on the Lackawanna train for a tendays' trip. On their return they will reside at 637 Madison avenue, which has been completely furnished by the bride's parents. They will be at home on Thursdays after Nov. 8.
